REACTIVE STAIN SCANS

Reactive stains work by reacting with the natural components within the wood. This process creates unique, 2-toned colors in wide variations that cannot be duplicated with traditional staining methods. To achieve this timeworn, multidimensional look on SPC planks, we hand-selected boards from our premium reactive stain floors and had them scanned to create the six 9"-wide colors in our Cascade Fine Sands series. Thanks to this state-of-the-art technology, the beauty of reactive stained European oak is now available in the robust structure of SPC!

Timbertop Lifestyle

ENGINEERED | EUROPEAN OAK

The Timbertop Lifestyle series vaunts stunning 9 1/2-inch wide planks, a smooth matte finish, and seven inspired colors. Whereas many modern stains merely paint the surface of the wood, reactive stains as exhibited in the Timbertop Lifestyle series work by interacting with the natural components of the wood to create unique, two-toned colors that cannot be imitated with traditional staining methods. This method produces wood that looks naturally aged, a richness that would take decades to achieve with a conventional stain. This combined with its innovative three-layer engineered design and a core of Hevea wood, known for its strength and reliability, the Timbertop Lifestyle series is certain to leave a lasting impression.

Surface Wear Layer

The top layer is of natural wood and features aesthetically pleasing and vivid detailing, with textures ranging from smooth, wirebrushed, to genuine handscraping

Precise Milling Technology

State-of-the-art milling technology and processes are used to create the profile, edges, and ends of each Urbanfloor plank. This technology ensures ease of installation with a smooth transition and a tight fit from plank to plank.
